

Figure 4. Elementary school teacher-estimated time per year spent preparing students for mandated tests

Figure reads: An estimated 30% of public elementary school teachers whose students take district- or state-mandated tests reported spending one week or less per year preparing students to take district-mandated tests, and about 24% spend one week or less per year preparing students for state-mandated tests.